Course Description

Nepali is one of the national languages of Nepal, a Himalayan kingdom. It is also an official language of Nepal and the Indian state of Sikkim, as well as parts of West Bengal. Nepali serves as the mother tongue for the majority of Nepal's population and acts as the primary lingua franca among the country's 40+ linguistically diverse ethnic groups. It is spoken by approximately 30 million people worldwide.

Nepali ranks as the 18th most commonly spoken language in the world today. It is used in several countries, including Nepal, Bhutan, Myanmar, and Thailand, as well as various regions of India. The Nepali diaspora in the United States, the United Kingdom, the Middle East, Australia, and other parts of the world also continues to use the language.

Nepali belongs to the Indo-Aryan language family and is written in the Devanagari script, which is derived from Sanskrit. The script is written from left to right, using a horizontal top line to connect letters within words and a vertical line to separate sentences. Nepali has borrowed a significant number of words from Sanskrit, followed by Hindi, Urdu, and English.

Historically, Nepali was first known as Parbate Bhasa or Khas language (Khas kura). Later, it was referred to as Gorkhali language (the language of the Gorkha Kingdom) before being officially called Nepali.

An Indo-Aryan language, Nepali has evolved over centuries, influenced by Sanskrit, Prakrit, and Tibeto-Burman languages. Its origins trace back to the 12th century in the Kathmandu Valley, and it was officially recognized as Nepal's national language in 1950. Nepali's literary heritage includes the works of Bhanu Bhakta Acharya, who was the first to translate the Ramayana into Nepali, solidifying its cultural significance.

As a unifying force in a country with over 120 languages, Nepali continues to thrive. Today, young authors contribute to its expanding literary landscape. Often referred to as the language of the Himalayas, Nepali carries the spirit of explorers seeking the mythical Yeti or Shangri-La, while also echoing the resilience of mountain communities striving to cultivate their land beneath the towering presence of Sagarmatha—Mt. Everest.

This course is designed for students seeking to build a foundational understanding of the Nepali language and culture. It focuses on essential grammar structures and the four core language skills: speaking, listening, reading, and writing, using culturally relevant materials.

How Credit Hours are Met by the Course

The credit standard for this course is met by an expectation of a total of 180 hours of student engagement with the course learning activities (at least 45 hours per credit), which include regularly scheduled instructor and student meeting times (e.g., 4 hours of synchronous course sessions daily, 5 sessions per week), reading, writing, listening, speaking, and out-of-class homework and project activities.

Regular and Substantive Student-Instructor Interaction

This course meets the regular and substantive student-instructor interaction requirement. By engaging students in teaching, learning and assessment through direct instruction, providing feedback on student work, providing information about course content, and facilitating discussion of course content on a weekly basis. Regular and substantive student-instructor interaction, as defined by the US Department of Education (Within 34 C.F.R. §600.2), is always a requirement of UW-Madison for-credit learning activities

Course Overview

This course is intended for beginners with no prior experience in the Nepali language. It emphasizes the development of essential language skills—speaking, listening, reading, and writing—through culturally relevant texts and materials. The course focuses on foundational grammar and practical communication in everyday contexts.

Homework & Other Assignments

Reasonable homework will be given a daily basis to enhance your progress in learning. The homework assigned in this course may consist of preparation for the next day's class. They aim to improve your language skills, reading, writing, speaking and listening, and grammatical structures. Each homework assignment will be worth 0 to 5 points. Points will be given depending on effort and correctness. Late homework will be accepted with a valid excuse. Students are also advised to keep all graded returned assignments. They become proof of grade as well as a study guide for the following sections, exams or projects. Your active participation is expected in the class. Homework or other assignments should be submitted through Canvas.

Exams, Quizzes, Papers & Other Major Graded Work

Quiz: Your weekly quiz will be scheduled on Friday morning from week 1, which will test on topics and skills covered in the previous week. On the 8-week program you will take 6 quizzes in total (3 quizzes in First Semester and 3 quizzes in Second Semester). The weekly quiz will have a speaking section where you will be assessed on your oral proficiency in a one-to-one session with the instructor.

Class Project: You will be required to present on a topic of interest in the final week of your program. In the first Semester the requirement of class project will be a poster presentation on a topic assigned by the instructor. The class project for the second semester, you will need to submit the topic yourself. The format of the project will be discussed in detail on week 5 of the program. Class projects count towards 10% of your grade each semester.

Final Exam: The final exams are scheduled on Friday, July 11 and Friday, August 8, the last day of the class. The format and content of the exam will test all skills, grammar and vocabulary points learnt in the second half of the program.

General Guidelines for Exam Proctoring

Failure to follow the proctoring guidelines provided by the instructor may result in a reduced grade. Students will be notified in advance of all assessments, and any changes to the proctoring procedures will also be communicated ahead of time.

WISLI Program PoliciesWISLI Attendance Policy

Students may miss one class per semester without penalty; a second absence can result in a full grade deduction; three or more absences may lead to an additional grade reduction or automatic failure.

WISLI Tardiness Policy

Given the intensive nature of the summer language classes, it is imperative to be ready to join class on time for both 2-hour sessions. To ensure a productive learning environment for all participants, WISLI defines tardiness as the following:

Tardiness: arriving more than 5 minutes late to a class session.

Excessive tardiness: arriving more than 10 minutes late to any session.

Tardiness in excess of 30 minutes will be considered an absence for the 2-hour session. Repeated tardiness:

Three instances of tardiness will result in a warning. A fourth instance of tardiness will require a meeting with an Academic Director.

Three instances of excessive tardiness (arriving more than 10 minutes late but less than 30) will be counted as one absence for the 2 hours.

Repeated tardiness in excess of 30 minutes will then be subject to the WISLI absence policy. Continued tardiness or excessive tardiness may result in further penalty or dismissal.

WISLI understands that unforeseen circumstances can occur. Please communicate any tardiness or absences to the course instructor as soon as possible.

WISLI Technology Policy

There are many helpful online tools available to language learners, and it is expected that these tools are used responsibly and in alignment with UW-Madison expectations of academic integrity and guidelines on generative artificial intelligence. Do not use translation software such as Google Translate or AI tools such as Microsoft Copilot unless your instructor directs you to use these tools for assignments or projects. And in these instances, these types of tools are only to be used in the manner permitted by the instructor. Ask your instructor for clarification if you have any questions about what is allowed.

UW-Madison Academic Policies and Statements

Academic Calendar & Religious Observations. View the full academic calendar in addition to information about religious and election day observances. Students are responsible for notifying instructors within the first two weeks of classes about any need for flexibility due to religious observances.

Establishment of the academic calendar for the University of Wisconsin–Madison falls within the authority of the faculty as set forth in Faculty Policies and Procedures. Construction of the academic calendar is subject to various rules and laws prescribed by the Board of Regents, the Faculty Senate, State of Wisconsin and the federal government. Find additional dates and deadlines for students on the Office of the Registrar website.

Academic Integrity. By virtue of enrollment, each student agrees to uphold the high academic standards of the University of Wisconsin–Madison; academic misconduct is behavior that negatively impacts the integrity of the institution. Cheating, fabrication, plagiarism, unauthorized collaboration and helping others commit these previously listed acts are examples of misconduct which may result in disciplinary action. Examples of disciplinary sanctions include, but are not limited to, failure on the assignment/course, written reprimand, disciplinary probation, suspension or expulsion.

Accommodations for Students with Disabilities: The University of Wisconsin–Madison supports the right of all enrolled students to a full and equal educational opportunity. The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), Wisconsin State Statute (36.12) and UW–Madison policy (UW-855) require the university to provide reasonable accommodations to students with disabilities to access and participate in its academic programs and educational services. Faculty and students share responsibility in the accommodation process. Students are expected to inform faculty of their need for instructional accommodations during the beginning of the semester, or as soon as possible after being approved for accommodations. Faculty will work either directly with the student or in coordination with the McBurney Disability Resource Center to provide reasonable instructional and course-related accommodations. Disability information, including instructional accommodations as part of a student’s educational record, is confidential and protected under FERPA.

Course Evaluations. Students at the University of Wisconsin–Madison have the opportunity to evaluate their learning experiences and the courses they are enrolled in through course evaluations. Many instructors use a digital course evaluation tool to collect feedback from students. Students typically receive notifications two weeks prior to the end of the semester requesting that they complete course evaluations. Student participation is an integral component of course development, and confidential feedback is important. UW–Madison strongly encourages student participation in course evaluations.

Diversity & Inclusion. Diversity is a source of strength, creativity, and innovation for the University of Wisconsin–Madison. We value the contributions of each person and respect the profound ways their identity, culture, background, experience, status, abilities, and opinion enrich the university community. We commit ourselves to the pursuit of excellence in teaching, research, outreach, and diversity as inextricably linked goals. UW–Madison fulfills its public mission by creating a welcoming and inclusive community for people from every background – people who as students, faculty, and staff serve Wisconsin and the world.

Mental Health and Well-Being. Students often experience stressors that can impact both their academic experience and personal well-being. These may include mental health concerns, substance misuse, sexual or relationship violence, family circumstances, campus climate, financial matters, among others.

UW–Madison students are encouraged to learn about and utilize the university’s mental health services and/or other resources as needed. Student can visit uhs.wisc.edu or call University Health Services at (608) 265-5600 to learn more.

Privacy of Student Records & Use of Audio Recorded Lectures. Lecture materials and recordings for this course are protected intellectual property at UW–Madison. Students enrolled in this course may use the materials and recordings for their personal use related to participation in the course. Students may also take notes solely for their personal use. If a lecture is not already recorded, students are not authorized to record lectures without permission unless they are considered by the university to be a qualified student with a disability who has an approved accommodation that includes recording. [Regent Policy Document 4-1] Students may not copy or have lecture materials and recordings outside of class, including posting on internet sites or selling to commercial entities, with the exception of sharing copies of personal notes as a notetaker through the McBurney Disability Resource Center. Students are otherwise prohibited from providing or selling their personal notes to anyone else or being paid for taking notes by any person or commercial firm without the instructor's express written permission. Unauthorized use of these copyrighted lecture materials and recordings constitutes copyright infringement and may be addressed under the university's policies, UWS Chapters 14 and 17, governing student academic and non-academic misconduct. View more information about FERPA.

Students' Rules, Rights & Responsibilities. View more information about student rules, rights and responsibilities such as student privacy rights, sharing of academic record information, academic integrity and grievances.

Teaching and Learning Data Transparency. The privacy and security of faculty, staff and students' personal information is a top priority for UW–Madison. The university carefully reviews and vets all campus-supported digital tools used for teaching and learning, including those that support data empowered educational practices and proctoring.
